WATER METERS JUST DECISION

State Railroad Commission Make Important Ruling Favorable to Water Patrons.

The Railroad Commission has rendered a decision in which it reiterates and establishes as a principle the rule that water companies must themselves bear the expense of service connections and of meters, and shall not impose these obligations upon their patrons. The Commission decides that water companies are entitled to rates which shall yield them an adequate return upon their investment, but that they shall not require their consumers to provide a portion of that investment represented by service connections and meters.

The commission has at different times expressed this principle in its decisions, but in a ruling just rendered it sets down the principle in definite form as a guide to the water companies of the State.

The Commission reviews the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and other bodies upon the points involved and concludes finally that the service connections and meters are part of the water system which must be built by the companies themselves.

San Bruno Items

By the Yellow critic.
Archie Moore came home from the country Saturday to visit his family for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, their sons and daughters and their families enjoyed a basket picnic, together with many neighbors, in the Spring Valley hills last Sunday.

Ed Pallace and family were autoing last Sunday.

The S. P. Company has built a passenger station at Lomita.

R. G. Sneath has commenced the shipment of hay for his dairy cows.

Although San Bruno has grown from two commuters to 160 and increased her freight business from $5,000 per year to $2,000 per month, we still have the same old tower house used for station purposes; no protection for passengers waiting for trains; no lights at night and the station is built on a bad curve which is unlawful. But the "people be damned." They are only good to produce profits for the Railroad.

Miss Mooney, a resident of the fifth addition, has an eight-hour position in San Mateo, of which she is very proud.

Some young people visited the fair grounds last Sunday, carrying a camera. The gate keeper charged them 50 cents to admit the camera.

The San Mateo electric has cut the weeds and thistles along their right-of-way, setting a good example, and this morning Supervisor Casey had a man clearing San Mateo avenue and he deserves the thanks of the community for the same.

San Bruno should have a 10 cent one-way fare to the city by the Southern Pacific. A good case of discrimination in favor of Fruitvale could be made against the Railroad.

The two-story residence of Mr. Young near the station, occupied by Mr. Mauer and Mr. Wight, was burned to the ground Tuesday evening with all outbuildings. No insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster of Los Angeles are visiting Mrs. Foster's sister, Mrs. Dunn of Bell Air.

What do you think, the Western Union has provided the messenger boys at the depot with new uniforms.

Governor Johnson has signed the bill providing for a State dry dock, and our Tom McConnell is the happiest man in the county.

Chas. P. Lambert, the monumental worker, is an expert at his profession and makes a specialty of letter-cutting on monuments in cemeteries—gilded if desired. Shop and residence near Mt. Olivet and the Italian cemeteries.

VOTE YES!

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OBJECT LESSON

The last week's issue of the Palo Alto Times contained the following story that is both timely and pertinent to existing conditions everywhere, because of the growing interest in municipal ownership of public utilities.

The information imparted by the Times is especially opportune in Daly City, where on Saturday the proposition for the establishment of a municipal water system will be voted upon, and the data coming as it does, unsolicited, will no doubt more effectually give the voters an insight to the benefits that may be derived if their verdict is favorable, than could be gained in any other way:

Redwood City, Menlo Park, San Mateo and Burlingame were dark Wednesday night. The lines of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company had been tampered with, and both street lights and house lights were out of commission during part of the night. It is surmised that the trouble is due to the strike. The wires have been tampered with in San Francisco, and the company is offering a big reward for the arrest of the vandals.

Without dwelling on the merits of the controversy between the electric corporation and its employees, it is a satisfaction to know that Palo Alto produces its own electricity and controls its own water supply.

The conditions of labor for this municipality have been satisfactory in every respect. The men are well paid; they work eight hours a day and six days a week. They give good service. At the same time rates are charged to consumers that are lower in Palo Alto than ever before.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company produces electricity in the Sierras at a very low cost, and makes an enormous profit on its sales. Palo Alto has considered a proposition to buy power from this company; but the city engineer showed that the city can produce power more cheaply than the private company will sell it.

With a minimum cost price and a high selling price in an unlimited field, it looks as if a great corporation ought to be able to keep its employees satisfied with conditions of employment. If a small municipal plant like Palo Alto can keep a strong corps of linemen and engineers employed under self-respecting conditions, the second largest private corporation in the west ought to be able to do as well.

Privately conducted utility corporations make it their first business to earn dividends for their owners. They usually keep the wages of their employees down to the minimum and the rates to consumers up to the maximum.

When this policy leads to strikes by employees and to constant regulation by the public, cities that are free from such troubles have reason to congratulate themselves again upon the ownership of their own water, light and gas plants.

THE SUPERVISORS

Regular Meeting Last Monday---$352,000

Bonds to be Sold June 30---

Several Important Matters

The Board of Supervisors met Monday in regular session with all members present.

Petition from Millbrae school district citizens, protesting against any of their territory being included in the proposed municipal incorporation of San Bruno.

Communication from State Highway Commission, stating that the commission could not build the road 24 feet wide south of San Mateo. It is estimated that there are about 9 miles that must be cared for by the Second and Third townships, and the cost will be about $2,000 a mile. Referred to Brown and MacBain.

San Bruno Federation of Improvements Clubs petitioned for change of paving on San Mateo avenue to 16 feet. Filed for reference.

No bids were received for bonds of the San Mateo school district. The matter was continued until June 30, the date set for the sale of the county road bonds of $353,000.

The design of Myself-Rollins for lithographing bonds was unsatisfactory and Casey, Brown and MacBain were appointed to attend to the matter.

The matter of purchasing safes for treasurer, referred to court house committee.

H. B. Morery was awarded contracts for two concrete bridges, the Cordelleras creek at $1,824 and the Shillings bridge at $1,761.

A resolution was passed calling an election in Purissima school district on July 11, to vote on annexation to Half Moon Bay High School District.

San Bruno petitioned for crossings of railroad at Scott and Howe streets and Huntington avenue, asking board to request Railroad Commission to act. Granted.

District Attorney Swart asked for and was granted leave of absence for 3 weeks. In his absence J. H. O'Keefe will act as district attorney.

Maloney who was cited to appear before the board and show cause why his license should not be revoked. The evidence was conclusive that Maloney had violated the law and his attorney admitted it, but asked lenience this time with promise of his client doing right in the future. It was finally so arranged after Maloney had been given to understand emphatically that any future violation would mean the loss of his license. District Attorney Swart said that he was determined to enforce the law whether the violator was friend or foe and that nothing would prevent him. He added that not less than 40 appeals had been made to him to let the Cypress Lodge continue.

The coast side water franchise was again postponed 30 days.

Order made to advertise for bids on San Mateo-Santa Clara counties bridge across San Francisco creek.

Casey asked for and was granted permission to construct the continuation of School street to the ocean by day labor. He urged that it would be as cheap or cheaper than contract work and the work can be done by residents of the county. The surveyor was instructed to inspect a bridge site on this road.

Surveyor instructed to prepare plans and specifications of a bridge across Coyote creek near San Gregorio.

P. H. Greer and Violet Hemple, representing the Automobile Association of Los Angeles, asked permission to race through the county on July 4. They stated that there were 46 entries and that the racers would leave Los Angeles at about 1:30 a. m. and expected to reach Tanforan between noon and 4 p. m. After some discussion the matter was referred to Casey, Brown and MacBain, the sheriff and district attorney.

Prof. Wing, of Stanford University, asked that the county stand one-third of survey for state road from Saratoga into the big basin, estimated to be about $335. Committee consisting of Blackburn, MacBain and Neuman was appointed to investigate and report at the adjourned meeting, June 30.

"CONEY ISLAND" IS PROJECTED

Eastern Syndicate Proposes to Expend Over Ten Millions on Resort

Representing investors who are willing to spend more than $2,500,000 in the deal that is contemplated, the agent of an eastern syndicate, whose name has not yet been made known, has called on Henry P. Bowie and attorneys of the Howard estate to close a deal for Coyote island, one mile from Burlingame in San Mateo county, and the properties there incorporated in the joint Howard and Bowie holdings.

The prospective purchasers are said to be members of the firm of Thompson Brothers, who have large concessions at Coney Island, N. Y., and in other cities of the east. The name of Captain John Barneson is also mentioned in the deal.

The island, which is one of the beauty spots of San Mateo county, is valued at $500,000 and the adjacent land at $500,000 more. The initial investment would be $500,000 and this would be for a hotel. The cost of other improvements would be nearly double this sum.

"A deal is on, but I can not tell you anything about it now. I am not in a position to give any details at present," said Henry P. Bowie when questioned about the pending sale of the Howard-Bowie properties. "We hold the island alone for $500,000 and the adjoining land is worth as much more. That is all I can say."

Captain John Barneson's name was mentioned in connection with the sale of the island because of his frequent efforts to acquire it.

There is a deep water channel that connects the island with the outer bay and alongside of its eastern slope there is more than 35 feet of water. The place is now used frequently by the residents of Burlingame and San Mateo as a swimming resort and a small clubhouse has been erected upon it.

Trees were planted by the Howards and Bowies upon what was a barren eminence, and these trees are now about 30 years old. They form a pretty forest, that adds greatly to the attractiveness of the place and to its value as a resort of the Coney Island sort.

The plan of the present promoters of the Coyote island scheme is said to have both a ferry and a railroad running to the island. The railroad could be connected with both the Southern Pacific and United Railroads. There would be only a mile of road to be constructed, and this would be over level land. The expense of maintenance would be small. In fact, it is possible that the United Railroads would build a loop into the grounds, as the intended purchasers expect to handle a large crowd during the Panama-Pacific exposition, and after the fair to make the grounds the chief amusement resort of this side of the bay.

Log Rolling at San Mateo

Buckeye Camp No. 563, Woodmen of the World, have about completed arrangements for a large joint class initiation to be held in San Mateo on the evening of July 11, with the camps of San Bruno, South San Francisco and Redwood City participating.

The "San Mateo Log-rolling" as it is known, and which, in the vernacular of the Woodmen of the World, means the introduction of a large number of new members at one time, was officially launched last Saturday night in I. O. O. F. hall with a grand smoker and entertainment. Mr. Peter Gilroy, Deputy Head Consul of the Order, delivered an eloquent and interesting address upon the success of the Order during its twenty-three years of existence.

The famous Uniformed Drill Team and Staff Officers of Golden Gate Camp No. 64, of San Francisco, have been invited, and will be present and confer the Protection Degree upon the big class of candidates. Mr. T. J. Van Hooser, the District Manager who is in charge of this campaign, will devote most of his time to the local camp during the next thirty days.

Points for Mothers

Dressing the Baby.

Mothers seem to be divided in their opinion of how to dress the baby, but their ideas are generally so extreme that they can easily be divided into two classes—the sensible, who believe in simplicity, and the foolish, who try to see how fancifully they can dress their little tots.

The elegance of baby's clothes should always be interpreted in fineness and not by fancifulness. If its little slips are to be the most beautiful they should be of the finest hand woven lingerie cloth and made so daintily that the eye can scarcely perceive the stitches in their narrow seams. That is real beauty and luxury for the baby.

The baby's first slips are the prettiest in the plain bishop style—finished with very narrow valenciennes lace edging around the neck and sleeves and brie stitching at the top of its hem. For "best" wear you may want a slightly more fanciful dress, with tiny hand embroidered yoke in the front narrow tucks running to the neck in the back and dainty embroidered flowers strewn here and there above the hem. Of course hemming always makes a desirable finish at the seams and is not ornate.

The infant's petticoats should be just as fine and plain as its slips. And in winter its "heavy" petticoats should be of the finest French flannel, so that they will not wash together and become weighty and bulky. The flannel petticoats should be finished with brie stitching. All petticoats should be made with little waists or wide waistbands.

Juvenile Nerves.

With highly strung children there is often a readiness to pick up nervous tricks from their elders. Thus from one a child learns to stammer, while from another it adopts various nervous movements of the muscles of the face or limbs. Such a child needs to be well fed and kept as much as possible in the open air, to lead a quiet life without excitement and without overexercise of the brain. Above all, it must be kept as much as possible away from those people from whom it seems to be taking the tricks of nervousness.

Reserved Boys.

Mothers, don't be too ready to think that your boy shows a want of trust in you if he occasionally keeps a secret or omits to tell you every little thing that he has done. Many boys are very reserved. They cannot bear to speak of what they feel deeply. Make your son understand that mother will always be glad to hear what he chooses to tell her, but that she does not want to force his confidence. Then he will speak much more freely to you than he would do if he felt that you were "always after him."

Screwing Up the Eyes.

Disastrous to beauty of a child's expression is the habit of screwing up the eyes. The trick points very plainly to defective vision and calls aloud for a visit to an oculist. The visit must not be delayed, for ugly wrinkles round the eyes is the least evil of this defect. A shortsighted child is severely handicapped when it begins its school life, and neglected myopia leads to serious eye trouble in later life. Properly prescribed spectacles are all that is required to end this particular trouble.

Mouth Breathing.

Mouth breathing, which is one of the signs which point to the presence of adenoids, can only be cured by going to the root of the matter and having the adenoids removed by operation. With very young children it is a wise precaution to do as the Indian squaws do, and that is to press the lips of the young child together when he first falls asleep.

Sunbonnets For Babies.

Protect the baby's eyes if the sun is very strong. Little sunbonnets of pink or pale blue chambray are both pretty and very sensible for young children. It is far easier to prevent weak eyes than to cure the weakness once it is contracted, and, while the sunshine does not always injure the eyes, you must remember that even a grown person cannot stand or work in the hot sunshine without feeling bad effects from the exposure.

Solid Foods.

The importance of never allowing a "taste" of ordinary food while the baby is small can hardly be overestimated. Not so much as "a crust or bite" should be allowed before he is nine or ten months old, and even that is better postponed until after the first year is completed.

Increase In Height.

Although perfectly healthy children differ greatly and no fixed rule is possible, the average child increases in height an inch a month between the second and fourth months. After this, up to a year, a half inch a month.

Nourishing Dishes.

Small children who are much in the open and who take vigorous exercise, should have cheese dishes and a little meat, mutton or broth for supper.

Woman's World

Mrs. James Speyer
to Help Fight Cancer.

MISS JAMES SPEYER.

A number of prominent women are active in the campaign that is being organized to make a national fight against that dread disease, cancer. Experts claim that, while tuberculosis is decreasing, cancer is increasing.

At a recent meeting in New York prominent men and women discussed ways and means of carrying on the work.

It is hoped to establish headquarters and carry on the work through an organization as in the case of the National Association For the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The campaign of education by the new organization will include the publication of articles in newspapers and magazines, distribution of pamphlets and seeking of co-operation by women's clubs, special instruction in nurses' training schools and lectures before mothers' clubs and groups of nurses and physicians.

Among the prominent women who have taken up this work is Mrs. James Speyer, wife of the New York banker. She has long been noted for her intelligent humanitarianism and for her intelligent and enthusiastic work in behalf of those reforms in which she is interested. Mrs. Speyer is perhaps the most distinguished woman advocate of a more enlightened and humane attitude in our treatment of dumb animals.

Mrs. Speyer is said to have a wonderful head for figures. At least so one might judge from the fact that she always has accurate statistics at her tongue's end about any one of the different organizations in which she is interested and that she is treasurer of St. Mary's Free Hospital For Children, of the Girls' Athletic league, of the Women's Auxiliary of the Saturday and Sunday Hospital association and has been treasurer for twenty-nine years of the Irene club, an organization of working girls established in New York by Miss Grace Dodge, which has become the mother club of innumerable working girls' "friendly associations," settlement classes and claims to be part sponsor of the Manhattan Trade school.

Mrs. Speyer's personality bespeaks intense activity. She is of slight, wiry build, has quick, sharp eyes and a very mobile face, with which she enlivens her conversation.

Among others actively interested in the proposed anti-cancer campaign are Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. H. Winthrop Gray, Mrs. Robert W. De Forest, Mrs. F. F. Thompson, Miss Laura Post, Mrs. Robert G. Mead, Mrs. E. R. Hewitt, president of the Women's Municipal league; Mrs. Robert C. Black, Mrs. George C. Clark and Mrs. V. Everitt Macy.

Philosophy of Life.

Determine once for all that you are never going to pity yourself. You are to take things as they come. You will not whine because you have no chance, but will make the best of whatever happens. You will adjust yourself to events and not complain because you cannot have things as you would like them.

Decide that you will be uniformly cheerful. You will put away all sulking, gloom and morbidness as being poison. You will steadily cultivate brightness and cheer as a habit, says Dr. Frank Crane in Woman's World. You can do this. What happens to you has nothing to do with the case. It all depends upon you.

Resolve to cultivate courage. Say to yourself that you will not be afraid, whatever comes along. The coward never did amount to anything. It is by being afraid that people become low, vile weaklings. All goodness is a form of moral courage.

Resolve also to be honest with yourself and with the world, that you will never seek to have any merit you do not possess nor take any money you have not earned nor desire praise when you do not deserve it.

To Bleach Faded Frocks.

The colored frock or blouse that has become faded with frequent launderings and from wear in the sun may be bleached to a clear white by boiling in cream of tartar water. The correct quantity to be used to make the garment a pure white is a teaspoonful of the powder to a quart of water.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Question Contest.

Prepare about ten times as many slips of paper as there are guests and write on each slip a question, with its answer.

These questions may be of any kind imaginable—literary, historical, geographical, local, with a mixture of conundrums and nonsense. Each person is given eight of these slips and a copy of directions, as follows:

The prize will be awarded to the one who obtains the most slips by observing these rules: Go to some person present and ask him one of your questions. If he can answer the question he gets the slip. If he cannot answer it you keep the slip, but tell him the answer if he wishes to know it.

Ask each person two questions. After you have asked the two questions this person must, in turn, ask you two of his questions, so that you may have a chance to get some of his slips. Do not ask the same question again till you have used all the rest that you hold. Do not ask of the same person again till you have asked every other one present. If you should lose all your slips you may obtain more from the distributor.

If too much trouble to write a set of rules for each guest two or three copies may be made and posted where they may be readily consulted. The game may be stopped at any time or carried on indefinitely.

The Stool of Repentance.

The players in this game being seated around the room, a stool is placed in the center, which one of the players volunteers to occupy while certain charges are made against him.

One person, acting as president, then goes about the room inquiring of each player what charges he or she has to make against the culprit, who is humbly sitting on the stool of repentance. All the accusations are whispered into the president's ear, who will do well, if the party is a large one, to be supplied with paper and pencil to write down the complaints and the names of the accusers.

All having made their charges, the president says: "Prisoner on the stool of repentance, you are accused of being too good natured, of smiling when you should look stern. Can you tell me the name of the person who makes this serious charge against you?"

Should the prisoner guess rightly the accuser must take his place on the stool of repentance. It sometimes happens that if the prisoner guesses rightly on the first charge he may wish to hear the rest. But if they are read to him he must guess each accuser's name or pay a forfeit each time he misses. If he cannot guess any one of the names of his accusers he must remain on the stool of repentance for a second round of accusations.

The Drawer of Water.

Some years ago an ass was employed in the Isle of Wight in drawing water by a large wheel from a very deep well. When the keeper wanted water he would say to the ass, "Tom, I want water; get into the wheel, my good lad," which Thomas immediately performed with promptness that would have done credit to a nobler animal, and no doubt he knew the precise number of times necessary for the wheel to go around on its axis to complete his labor, because every time he brought the bucket to the surface of the well he stopped cautiously and turned his honest head to observe the moment when his master laid hold of the bucket to draw it toward him, because he then had just one more turn to make to bring the rope to the top. It was pleasing to observe with what steadiness and regularity the poor animal performed his labor.

An Intelligent Cat.

A lady had a tame bird which she was in the habit of letting out of its cage every day. One morning as it was picking crumbs of bread off the carpet her cat, who always before showed great kindness for the bird, seized it on a sudden and jumped with it in her mouth upon a table. The lady was much alarmed for the fate of her favorite, but on turning about instantly discerned the cause. The door had been left open and a strange cat had just come into the room! After turning it out her own cat came down from her place of safety and dropped the bird without having done it the smallest injury.

Beards In Olden Days.

Beards were regarded as a sacred possession by ancient races. The Jews were proud of their beards and wore them through the days of their Egyptian bondage, although the Egyptians shaved. The Greeks and Romans of the ancient days mostly shaved, and the term "barbarous" (beard wearing) was applied for a long period to people who were considered out of the pale of polite society. Beards have been taxed occasionally, as in Russia by Peter the Great and at an earlier date in England.

Conundrums.

What is the difference between a good soldier and a fashionable young lady? One faces the powder and the other powders the face.

Why are blacksmiths the most discontented of mechanics? Because they are always on the strike for wages.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Window Cleaning Seat That Is Safe and Comfortable.

The window cleaning seat shown herewith is of importance to the housewife. A strong metal framework has downwardly reaching hooks at one end to engage the inside ledge of the window sill. Supports near the center of the frame rest on the outer ledge. Where the sill is of unusual construction the frame may be adjusted so that it has the proper balance, which is an important consideration. A folding back is hinged to the outer ends of the frame, and when this back is raised the user not only has a greater feeling of safety, but she can lean back and have the free use of both her arms without holding on to the window frame with one hand. Thumb screws clamp the seat close against the opposite sides of the sill.

Cabbage Loaf.

Take an oval or oblong loaf of bread and remove the crust, scoop out the inside, leaving a case having its walls three-fourths of an inch in thickness, then fry in deep fat. Take off the outside, wilted leaves from a firm, small cabbage and cut in quarters, removing the tough stalk; then cut in thin slices. Soak in cold water ten minutes, drain and cook in an uncovered vessel in boiling salted water to which is added one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. If there is some spare milk on hand try cooking in one-half milk and one-half water, as it improves it. When the cabbage is tender drain thoroughly and season generously with butter, salt and pepper. Fill the box (of bread) with the cabbage and sprinkle with a mixture of breadcrumbs and grated cheese, using three-fourths of a cupful of crumbs and one-quarter of a cupful of cheese. Put in a pan or dish and let stand in the oven until the cheese has melted and garnish with points or outlet shaped pieces of bread sauced in butter and parsley.

Picnic Sandwiches.

If sandwiches are not to be used for some time after they are made they can be wrapped in waxed paper and put in a tin bread or cake box. Some persons wrap them in a slightly damp cloth and keep them in the icebox. When sandwiches are carried for a picnic lunch they sometimes taste of the box they are carried in, and if they are wrapped in waxed paper they carry better in a wicker basket through which the air circulates. Fruit sandwiches are more generally used than they used to be and are so delicious that they ought to form a part of every sandwich repast. They satisfy a natural craving for sweets and are more wholesome and more easily made than cakes or candies.

Remedy For Burns.

A mixture of castor oil with the white of egg has been recommended for burns. It allays the pain more quickly and causes the wound to heal more rapidly than any other application. The eggs are broken and emptied into a bowl and the castor oil gradually and slowly poured in while the eggs are beaten. Enough oil is added to make a thick, creamy paste, which is applied to the burn with a feather. The applications are repeated often enough to prevent their becoming dry or sticky. It is best to abstain from any dressings, leaving the surface uncovered.

Utilizing Old Blankets.

White or light colored blankets which are too worn to use on beds make lovely warm comforts by placing them between saten or pretty silklike and tacking them together with worsted. Do not tack too closely—just here and there, so the blanket can be removed when soiled, and washed. A pair of blankets which have had all the wear they can stand will, if made into a comfort in the above way, wear two or three years longer, and be warm, light and sanitary.

Vegetable Soup.

Two quarts water, two teaspoonfuls extract of beef, half cupful carrots, one cupful potatoes, half onion, chopped fine; half cupful celery, three tablespoonfuls tomatoes (stewed), half tablespoonful parsley, two tablespoonfuls butter, half bay leaf, half cupful rice, salt and pepper will be needed. Chop vegetables and add with rice to water which has been salted, cook until tender (about half hour), then add extract of beef, parsley, bay leaf and seasoning.

DALY CITY, CALIFORNIA, JUNE 20, 1913

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OBJECT LESSON

The last week's issue of the Palo Alto Times contained the following story that is both timely and pertinent to existing conditions everywhere, because of the growing interest in municipal ownership of public utilities.

The information imparted by the Times is especially opportune in Daly City, where on Saturday the proposition for the establishment of a municipal water system will be voted upon, and the data coming as it does, unsolicited, will no doubt more effectually give the voters an insight to the benefits that may be derived if their verdict is favorable, than could be gained in any other way:

Redwood City, Menlo Park, San Mateo and Burlingame were dark Wednesday night. The lines of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company had been tampered with, and both street lights and house lights were out of commission during part of the night. It is surmised that the trouble is due to the strike. The wires have been tampered with in San Francisco, and the company is offering a big reward for the arrest of the vandals.

Without dwelling on the merits of the controversy between the electric corporation and its employees, it is a satisfaction to know that Palo Alto produces its own electricity and controls its own water supply.

The conditions of labor for this municipality have been satisfactory in every respect. The men are well paid; they work eight hours a day and six days a week. They give good service. At the same time rates are charged to consumers that are lower in Palo Alto than ever before.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company produces electricity in the Sierras at a very low cost, and makes an enormous profit on its sales. Palo Alto has considered a proposition to buy power from this company; but the city engineer showed that the city can produce power more cheaply than the private company will sell it.

With a minimum cost price and a high selling price in an unlimited field, it looks as if a great corporation ought to be able to keep its employees satisfied with conditions of employment. If a small municipal plant like Palo Alto's can keep a strong corps of linemen and engineers employed under self-respecting conditions, the second largest private corporation in the west ought to be able to do as well.

Privately conducted utility corporations make it their first business to earn dividends for their owners. They usually keep the wages of their employees down to the minimum and the rates to consumers up to the maximum.

When this policy leads to strikes by employees and to constant regulation by the public, cities that are free from such troubles have reason to congratulate themselves again upon the ownership of their own water, light and gas plants.

THE LEADER WANTS S. P. DEPOT BURNED.

Speaking of catfish, how would it do to get the fire apparatus out hunting a grass fire and then apply a match to the old S. P. depot and unscramble it.—San Mateo Leader.

The foregoing may have been written during moments of sanity, but no one ever thought Morse would "set the world on fire," or even that "vulgar" depot. He lost the city printing and has nothing to do now, so there is no telling what may happen.

The agitation for municipal ownership of water in Daly City originated in the Record three or four years ago, when this paper first defended the infamous treatment of the Hillcrest people by Bloom, suggesting a tar and feathers remedy. This caused a letter to the editor, that is still on file, threatening criminal libel.

LABOR is the builder of nations. When the leaders of men were ignorant and sought to solve all problems with blows and not reason, then Labor fashioned the sword, made the spear, built the fortress, clothed and fed the armies, and filled the ranks of the armies with the sons of Labor. Labor fought all the battles. Labor paid the price of all the wars. Labor inflicted all the wounds. Labor bore on its own breast every wound that was ever given. Labor has been the master and the victim of it all.

ORDINANCE NO. 52

An Ordinance Calling and Providing For, and Giving Notice of a Special Election to be Held in the City of Daly City, State of California, on Saturday, June 21, 1913, For the Purpose of Submitting to the Qualified Voters of Said City, the proposition to Incur a Bonded Debt by Said City of Daly City, For the Purpose of Constructing a System of Waterworks for Said City.

WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees of the City of Daly City, did, on the 19th day of May, 1913, by a vote of more than two-thirds of the members of said board, adopt a resolution determining that public interest and necessity demanded the construction of a system of waterworks for said city, and that the cost of the construction of said municipal improvement would be too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of said city, which resolution was duly approved by the President of the Board of Trustees of said city, as the Executive of said municipality.

NOW THEREFORE, the Board of Trustees of the City of Daly City do ordain as follows:

Section 1. A special election is hereby called and ordered to be held in the City of Daly City, State of California, on

The estimated cost of the proposed public improvement is One Hundred Thousand Dollars, and the amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor is One Hundred Thousand Dollars. The rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness will be not to exceed five and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually.

Section 2. The special election hereby called and ordered to be held shall be held and conducted, and the votes thereat received and canvassed, and the returns thereof made, and the result thereof ascertained, determined and declared as herein provided and according to the laws of the State of California, providing for and governing elections in the City of Daly City, and the polls for such election shall be and remain open during the time required by said laws.

The ballots to be used at said special election shall be such as may be required by law to be used thereat, and, in addition to any other matter required by law to be printed thereon, shall appear the following:

To vote against the proposition, and thereby refuse to authorize the incurring of a bonded indebtedness for the amount of, and for the purpose stated in such proposition, stamp a cross (X) in the blank space to the right of the word "NO".

Also said ballot shall have printed thereon, the following:

Proposition to incur a bonded debt by the City of Daly City, to the amount of $100,000, for the purpose of constructing a system of waterworks for said city, such debt to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed five and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually.

Sample ballots containing the above matter required to be printed thereon, shall be supplied to the electors of said city by the city clerk, but a failure on the part of any elector to receive such sample ballot, shall not be held to invalidate the election or affect in any manner the legality of any bonds that may be authorized thereat.

Section 3. Any qualified elector of the City of Daly City may vote at said special election for or against the proposition herewith submitted. To vote in favor of, and authorize the incurring of a bonded debt for the purpose set forth in the proposition herein stated, he or she shall stamp a cross (X) in the square to the right of the word "YES" printed opposite to such proposition, and to vote against and refuse to authorize the incurring of a bonded debt for the purpose set forth in the proposition herein stated, he or she shall stamp a cross (X) in the square to the right of the word "NO" printed opposite such proposition.

Each cross (X) stamped in the square to the right of the word "YES" shall be counted as a vote in favor of, and to authorize the incurring of a bonded indebtedness for the purpose set forth in the proposition opposite to which such cross (X) is stamped; and each cross (X) stamped in the square to the right of the word "NO" shall be counted as a vote not in favor of, and a refusal to authorize the incurring of a bonded indebtedness for the purpose set forth in the proposition opposite to which such cross (X) is stamped.

VOTE YES! ON THE WATER BONDS

Civic Betterment League

The meeting of the Civic Betterment League Tuesday evening was unusually interesting, the water bonding question attracting a fine attendance, and many excellent remarks and arguments were presented in the advocacy of the bonds and the great needs of an adequate water system in Daly City.

The League is very much interested in the success of the water bonds—in fact, the present movement originated there—and a meeting had been arranged to boost the election, to be held this (Friday) evening at Bracken's Hall. This was done when it was understood that Knowles Hall could not be secured and for that reason no meeting was announced by the trustees. Tuesday evening, however it was learned that the trustees had secured Knowles Hall for tonight, whereupon the League decided to give way and join the top-of-the-hill meeting, and by unanimous vote authorized the following:

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC
"Learning that the Board of Trustees would hold a meeting at Knowles Hall on Friday evening, June 20, the Civic Betterment League decide not to hold the proposed meeting on that evening at Bracken's Hall, and will boost in every possible way for the proposed bond issue."

R. R. CASTLE, President.

Beautiful Graduation Exercises

Last Friday the Crocker Tract School was the scene of one of the most elaborate and beautifully arranged graduation exercises ever held in Jefferson School District. The floral decorations were particularly fine, giving an exquisite effect, such as is seldom seen or even possible, while the pupils and efficient teachers in charge were all elegantly attired, thus completing the setting to practical perfection.

The people in that portion of the city have taste commendable and their entertainments of any kind are always first-class, but in this instance they surpassed even themselves, and the other schools that joined certainly have cause to be proud that they did so. The following is a complete list of the graduates of the Jefferson School District:

Those Awful Dear Ladies

The Ladies' Improvement Club of Daly City were entertained on Thursday afternoon of last week at the Grandview theatre where a sumptuous lunch was served by Mesdames Kahn, Behre and Collins.

The entertainment was more than elaborate. Mrs. Edward Freyer recited an exquisite medley of the "Psalm of Life," "Yankee Doodle" and "Dixie." Mrs. Parker read the Declaration of Independence and then recited the "Creed of the Bells," while Mrs. Collins gave a fine impersonation of an operetta played-by-one and sang "The Wild Irish Rose."

There was piano music, dancing and course after course of refreshments, but Jim Parker (the Judge), the only guy who ever gained entrance to the sacred precinct of the ladies' club, capped the climax by singing a song that would have made the song birds of Sing Sing weep with envy. Why, even the street cars stopped and the passengers thronged the street thinking Tetraxini was charming the charming woman's club in the interest of the water bond election.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDY ON THE VICTORIES OF FAITH. Acts 7:9-16; Hebrews 11:20-22— June 29.

"This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."—1 John 5:4.

I live in a day when faith is greatly discounted. People seem disposed to say, "I care not what a man believes, if only his life be honorable."

By this generally is meant that faith is of no consequence. Those who so hold usually put honor of men as the highest goal. Their sentiments, translated into plain English, would be, "With all your getting, get money and prosperity; for without these, you will never prosper in the present life."

The Bible standpoint, however, is the very reverse of this. God's Word puts faith first, and builds character upon that faith. God declares that no human being can do perfect works. Hence He has not made works the standard. Faith is God's standard, and He assures us that whoever has the proper faith must necessarily have works to correspond.

In line with this principle, we note that God's favorites of the Bible have all been men of faith. Their faith did not make them perfect, nor were their works always acceptable in God's sight. But He punished them for evil works, and rewarded them for faith. Thus we find in the Bible record that some of God's favorites committed grievous sins and made serious mistakes. Nevertheless, they maintained God's favor, by reason of their faith. Of all religious books ever written the Bible is perhaps the most candid. It tells of the mistakes and the sins of the very men which it holds up as examples. Yet the Bible inculcates the highest possible standards of righteousness, in word, deed and thought.

The Faith Before Christ Came.

The first proclamation of God's purposes respecting humanity was made to Abraham. After Abraham had manifested his faith, God declared that He would greatly bless him and his posterity, so that through him would eventually come children who would accomplish the great work of blessing mankind, and who would rescue all from the power of sin and death. "In thee and in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

For years God tested Abraham. Yet "his faith staggered not." After Isaac had been born and as yet had no child, God directed that this son of promise be sacrificed. What a grand development of faith Abraham had acquired when he was ready to obey, accounting that God was able to raise Isaac from the dead! O the blessing of such faith! It was the same with Isaac and Jacob. That promise influenced the whole course of their lives. Although they understood practically nothing of how God would accomplish so great a blessing, yet their faith laid hold upon the fact. It made them more like God. It shaped every interest of life.

By and by, Israel was called the people of God. The Covenant of Sinai pledged them to be a holy nation. God covenanted with them that if they would keep His Law blamelessly, He would fulfill in them the Promise made to Abraham. He knew that imperfect men could not keep His perfect Law; but He let them try, thereby learning the lesson. Through that lesson He would give instruction to the angels respecting His righteousness, and also to Spiritual Israel, whom later He would develop and through whom the blessing actually would come.

During the Jewish Age, God blessed those Israelites who shared Abraham's faith. St. Paul could enumerate a considerable number who pleased God because of their faith. Those Ancient Worthies, although they will not be the Seed of Abraham in the highest sense, on the spirit plane, will be the seed of blessing on the earthly plane—the channel through which blessings will ultimately come to all nations.

Faith Since Christ Came.

Christ's coming did not change the Divine Purpose, and therefore did not change the faith of God's people. Jesus and the Apostles believed and taught the very Gospel which St. Paul says, God preached to Abraham. (Galatians 3:8)

The Message still was that all the families of the earth would be blessed through Abraham's Seed. But there was an additional feature to be proclaimed; namely, that God had begun the work of providing this Seed—Messiah. God had sent His Son into the world, that He might become the Seed of Abraham on the spirit plane, and eventually fulfill every feature of the original Promise.

Later, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, the Apostle instructed the early Church that The Messiah would not be one person, but many. Not Jesus alone would be the Seed of Abraham, but Jesus the Head and the Church the Body, would be that Seed. Jesus was represented by the head of Isaac, and the Church by his body, as St. Paul says, "We, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of Promise." It has taken the entire Gospel Age to develop this Body, the Church.

This is "the faith once delivered to the saints," the hope set before us in the Gospel, which sanctifies our hearts.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Charley Dooin Still Hopeful of Flag.

Manager Charley Dooin insists his team will be in the thickest of the National league fight from start to finish. Dooin declares the Phillies compare very favorably with the Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago teams.

Charles thinks his team will hang around position No. 2 from June on until near the finish and then with a spurt land the banner or at least make it very warm for the leading club. He says he will try hard to catch every game from now on. This time last year the Quakers were picked to win the pennant, but injuries put them out of the running. So far this season the club has been fortunate in this matter.

Swedes Still In Hunt.

The Swedish government is showing an excellent and persistent desire to foster athletics just as strongly in the future as in the past. Although the Olympic games at Stockholm are now history, there is no intention of dropping back into the rut. Since then assistance has been given in various directions, and now the riksdag has voted close to $20,000 to the Olympic committee for the purpose of furthering track and field athletics alone.

The Swedish association is endeavoring to gather together a first class team to compete at the English Amateur Athletic association championships in July, and in all probability other international matches will be arranged so that the Swedes may gain experience and study technique.

Pitcher Scott In Good Trim.

Jim Scott, the big right handed pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, is twenty-five years old and was born in Deadwood, S. D. He became a professional ball player seven years ago and joined the White Sox five years ago. Last season he started like a champion, shutting out the Browns in a fifteen inning game. He had an attack of rheumatism shortly thereafter and did not play again until near the end of the season. He appears to be all right this year.

Ferguson Rated a Star Umpire.

Young Ferguson, the new American league umpire, has been giving such general satisfaction in the games he has handled in the west thus far that he already is being hailed as one of Ban Johnson's star indicator holders. His debut is as auspicious as that of Billy Evans, say critics who have watched his work.

Johnson Great Fungo Hitter.

Chief Johnson, the Red Sox young infielder, is the star fungo hitter of the team. When he attempts to put all his force into the swing he can drive the ball into the bleachers twice out of three trials. On one occasion he fungued the ball clear over the distant right field fence.

Big Power Boat Carnival.

It is likely that the greatest power boat carnival ever held in this country will take place the week of July 27 on Lake Erie during the Perry centennial. The contests will begin at Toledo, after which the boats will cruise forty-two miles to Put-in-Bay.

HUMOROUS QUIPS.

Out on the Farm.

Out upon the farm it's lovely just about this time o' year. Lambs and calves are gettin' frisky, birds beginnin' to appear. Down along the stream the willows have a sort of golden glow. And the hens are cacklin' loudly, and the roosters proudly crow. Little colts with tails all curly hoist their hind legs in the air. And the farmer gets up early to begin his duties there.

Out upon the farm it's splendid just about this time in spring. When the winter's gloom is ended and there's cheer in everything. Larks and robins busy singin', blackbirds chirpin' in the trees. And a cheerful promise whispered out of every passin' breeze. Squirrels scootin' on the fences, fields a' gettin' green once more. Every day the world commences to look finer than before.

Out upon the farm it's lovely just along about this time. There are new nests in the hedges, and the wheat is lookin' prime. All the streams are gladly gurglin' where the pebbly shallows are. At the gate a pig is tryin' to break through the lower bar. Round the gables swallows dartin', stub-tails turnin' dry and brown. But the work out there is startin', and I guess I'll stay in town. —Chicago Record-Herald.

How He Apologized.

At the railway refreshment room one of the passengers was in a hurry. "Please pass me them pertaters, mister," he said, addressing an elegant gentleman who sat next him.

The latter slowly focused his gold mounted eyeglasses on the speaker. "Do you take me for one of the waiters?" he asked, icily.

The others held their knives and forks suspended in midair, expecting to see the man shrivel up. But no such phenomenon took place. He turned and beckoned to the nearest waiter. "Waiter, come here, please."

"Yes, sir."

"I want to apologize to you, that is all. You see, I mistook this party here for you, but I hope you won't be offended at it. Now, just pass me them pertaters, waiter, and we'll go on with the dinner." —New York World.

Spoke Too Soon.

"Miss Sweet," the young man began, with a quaver in his voice, "may I presume so far upon our short acquaintance to ask you—"

"Please say no more, Mr. Matthews," faltered the maiden. "I deeply regret to give you pain, and if I have unconsciously encouraged you to entertain hopes that never can be realized I cannot forgive myself. Believe me, I am—"

"Pardon me, Miss Sweet," interrupted the astonished youth. "But I was only going to ask you for the loan of car fare home. I was stupid enough to come away without any money in my pocket this evening. Ah, thanks, very much! I will return it without fail. Good night!" —London Answers.

Her Grievance.

A famous Ohio humorist says that a very rich family in Cleveland, who were beginning to put on a lot of airs, hired a colored girl just arrived from the south to act as their serving maid. Her new mistress insisted that all meals should be served in courses. Even when there wasn't much to eat it was brought to the table in courses. At the end of a week the girl threw up her job. Being pressed for a reason for quitting so suddenly, she said: "I'll tell you, lady. In dis yere house dere's too much shiffin' of de dishes fur de fewness of de vittles." —Saturday Evening Post.

A Choice of Evils.

A shoemaker had a sign above his door which read, "A. Swindler." One day a gentleman came in and said:

"Why don't you put your given name on that sign instead of your initial? People will think you are a rogue."

"Why, dot would make it worse," said the shoemaker. "It is Adam." —National Monthly.

A Technical Point.

Lawyer—Your honor, I ask the dismissal of my client on the ground that the warrant fails to state that he hit Bill Jones with malicious intent.

Rural Judge—This court ain't a graduate of none of your technical schools. I don't care what he hit him with. The p'int is, Did he hit him? Perceed.—Pathfinder.

Ready Diagnosis.

Fortune Teller (solemnly)—Even as I speak there is a wreck in your home caused by a blond woman.

Customer (carelessly)—That's nothing—only that Swedish maid of ours breaking more dishes. —Baltimore American.

A Valuable Improvement.

"What do you think of this proposed telephone attachment to enable the talkers to see each other?"

"It will be fine. Then I can call up my husband to tell me if my hat is on straight." —Washington Herald.

A Debt We All Owe.

"What a debt we owe to medical science!" he said as he put down the paper.

"Good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Haven't you paid that doctor's bill yet?" —Chicago Journal.

Just Why.

"Isn't Alice going to marry Jack, after all?"

"Afraid not. She says she hates to give up the $1.50 shows for the ten cent moving pictures." —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Combination of Jumper and Swing to Hold the Baby.

An Oregon man has patented a combined baby jumper and swing that will probably afford infants much enjoyment and give mothers more rest. A basket shaped device is suspended from the ceiling of porch or room by means of elastic cords. This device, known as the saddle, has openings in the front through which the baby's legs are thrust and come up around his waist. When sitting in it he is completely safeguarded against falling out and yet he can swing his legs with perfect freedom. This apparatus can be used as a swing or will bounce up and down owing to the elastic cords. A tray with slots in the ends can be affixed to the swing or removed in an instant by the simple expedient of inserting a cord in each slot. A child may swing or bounce about in this contrivance in perfect safety.

Starching Net Curtains.

Gelatin starch is successfully used for stiffening net curtains. To make it soak a quarter of an ounce of gelatin in a cupful of cold water for an hour and then dissolve it in a quart of boiling water. When this is clear starch the curtains by immersing them in it and wringing them dry. It sometimes will need to be strained through a fine wire sieve or a piece of coarse cheesecloth to make it clear. Tea or bluing should be added before it is strained and well stirred in to avoid streaks. If starch made in this way is not stiff enough increase the proportion of gelatin.

Refurbishing Window Shades.

When shades are soiled and faded they can be reversed on the rollers so that the faded and soiled portion is rolled up excepting when the shade is pulled down to its full length. Cut off the old hem and, untack the other end of the shade from the roller. Tack the end which used to be hemmed on the roller, press the rolled end, fold a hem, stitch it on the machine with the loosest stitch or else catch it neatly by hand, slip the stick from the old hem in the new one, and the shades are as good as new for a long time to come.

Pique Bedspreads.

This pique can be made into serviceable and durable bedspreads for summer at little expense. It can be pieced together down the center with a band of heavy embroidery insertion or with an applied, stitched band of white linen. The edges can be hemmed or finished with an applied banding of figured or plain material. This same material may be used to cover the center piecing. Such a spread, made of pique, which sells for 30 or 40 cents a yard, would wear for years if carefully made.

Boiling a Ham.

The delicate flavor of boiled ham is often tainted with the flavor that boils into the meat from the rusty rind. To soak a ham overnight in cold water is not too long a time to free it from the disagreeable rind taste. Scrape and wash it clean. Boil for fifteen minutes, pour off the first water and use fresh water. When done remove from the boiling pot, take off the skin, sprinkle over with pepper and a little brown sugar and bake brown. A little vinegar or sweet cider improves the flavor.

Lemon as a Cleanser.

Never throw away pieces of lemon after they have been squeezed with the lemon squeezer, for they come in handy for removing stains from the hands and elsewhere. Dipped into salt they will scour copper kettles nicely and remove stains from brass-work. Lemon like this will take stains, dirt and odor from pans and kettles as nothing else will. The odors of fish and onions can thus be easily removed.

Restorative For Invalids.

Invalids who dislike the flavor of meat extract will be able to take it if a teaspoonful or so is added to a cupful of boiling milk. The milk disguises the taste of the meat extract. A small quantity of this mixture taken when there is a feeling of exhaustion will prove an admirable restorative.

Rancid Butter.

To sweeten rancid butter melt the butter, skim it, then place a piece of light brown toast in it, and in a few minutes the toast will have absorbed the unpleasant taste and smell.

FOR THE CHILDREN

For Boys Who Play Ball.

Professional baseball players play the game for the love of the game and because they make their living in that way. So they play it for all it is worth, and their whole waking time is spent in the perfection of the game and in the attempt to make its due points finer.

Realizing this, the college team has all too often "gone the professional one better" in the multiplicity and complications of its signals.

Don't make the same mistake. Don't have too many signals. Don't make them complicated.

Four signs for catcher to pitcher, four signs from pitcher to catcher—that is all you should need to bother with.

"Hit!" "The hit and run," "a bunt" (or sacrifice) and "Wait!" between bench and batter—these are sufficient. "Steal!" a signal between the catcher and the runner; "Will hit next ball!" a sign from batter to runner.

If you have a simple code for all these things you have plenty for the average kid's game, and if you have them well learned and if you agree to obey signs and stick to it, other things being equal, you will seldom fail to vanquish the other nines in your league or neighborhood.

The First Step.

A Woodman came into a forest and made a petition to the Trees to provide him a handle for his ax.

The Trees, honored by his civility, acceded to his request and held a consultation to decide which of them should be given to him.

Without a dissenting voice the choice fell upon the Ash, which it seems is not a favorite among the Trees. Some of them were bold enough to say that bad luck went with the Ash and that at heart they were not bound to be in sympathy with woodcutters.

The Woodman cut down the Tree and fitted the handle to his ax, then, to the dismay of the Trees, set to work and with strong strokes quickly felled all the noblest giants of the forest.

Lamenting too late the fate of his companions, an old Oak said to a neighboring Cedar:

"The first step has lost us all. If we had not so willingly given up the rights of the Ash we might have stood for ages."

A Dog's Intelligence.

Animals as a rule understand what their friends are. A Washingtonian tells the story of the dog whose eyes had been treated by an oculist to his great relief. The trouble returned, and the dog's master determined to take him to the oculist's a second time. Flim Flam seemed to know where he was going, for on entering the square where the oculist had his office he raced ahead of his master and up the step where he had been but once before and on the door being opened bolted straight for the treatment room. This time the treatment was a zinc solution that was very severe and brought the water in streams from the patient's eyes, but he took it with his nose in the air, never wincing, and the only sign of feeling he made was to hold out one paw pathetically for his master's hand.

Oddities of Genius.

Of the great philosopher Samuel Johnson it is said that the doctor was remarkable in his school days for his habit of putting off disagreeable tasks for an indefinite period. His extraordinary memory enabled him to easily perform his tasks when once fairly started. He greatly enjoyed being carried into school every morning by three of his schoolfellows and in return for the distinction thus afforded him often helped them very materially with their lessons. He cared little for the usual games, but invented a winter pastime which always gave him great delight when he could indulge in it. This was to go upon the ice in his bare feet with a rope fastened to his waist and be dragged about at a high rate of speed by a hilarious group of school fellows.

Old Sailor.

This game will be fun for the smaller children. They must first "count out" to see which one will be the old sailor. All then stand in line except the old sailor, who comes limping up and says to the first child:

Here comes an old sailor from Baffin bay. What have you got to give him today?

He may then ask any question he chooses from the players in turn, but if in answering him any player uses the word "yes" or "no" or "black" or "white" that one must become old sailor, and the questioner takes his place in the line.

The Penny Post.

When Rowland Hill first proposed what was called "the penny post" everybody thought it was a joke, for up to that time it had cost 50 cents to send a letter from one end of England to the other. From the very first, however, the postal system was a success, and now every country in the world has it. It is hard to realize that the very first letter which traveled to its destination for 2 cents was mailed in the days of Queen Victoria's reign—the good queen who died not a great many years ago.

SONG OF CLAN ALPINE.

ALL to the chief who in triumph
advances!
Honored and blessed be the ever green pine!
Long may the tree, in his banner
that glances,
Flourish, the shelter and grace of our line!
Heaven send it happy dew;
Earth send it sap anew;
Gayly to burgeon and broadly to grow,
While every highland glen Sends our shout back again,
"Roderigh Vich Alpine dhu, ho, teroe!"

There is no sapling, chance sown by the fountain,
Blooming at Beltane, in winter to fade.
When the whirlwind has stripped every leaf from the mountain,
The more shall Clan Alpine exult in her shade,
Moored in the rifted rock,
Proof to the tempest's shock,
Firmer he roots him the ruder it blow:
Menteth and Bredaibane, then,
Echo his praise again,
"Roderigh Vich Alpine dhu, ho, teroe!"

Proudly our pibroch has thrilled in Glen Frutin,
And Bannachars's groans to our slogan
replied,
Glen Luss and Ross dhu, they are smoking in ruin,
And the best of Loch Lomond lie dead
on her side.
Widow and Saxon maid
Long shall lament our raid,
Think of Clan Alpine with fear and with woe,
Lennox and Leven glen Shake when they hear again,
"Roderigh Vich Alpine dhu, ho, teroe!"

Row, vassals, row, for the pride of the highlands!
Stretch to your oars for the evergreen
pine!
Oh, that the rosebud that graces yon islands
Were wreathed in a garland around him
to wine!
Oh, that some seedling gem,
Worthy such noble stem,
Honored and blessed in their shadow
might grow!
Loud should Clan Alpine then Ring from her deapest glen,
"Roderigh Vich Alpine dhu, ho, teroe!"
—Sir Walter Scott.

WASHINGTON.

LO, where, beneath an icy shield,
Calmly the mighty Hudson flows!
By snowclad fell and frozen
field,
Broadening, the lordly river goes.
The wildest storm that sweeps
through space
And rends the oak with sudden force
Can raise no ripple on his face
Or slacken his majestic course.
Thus, 'mid the wreck of thrones,
shall live
Unmarred, undimmed, our hero's fame,
And years succeeding years shall give
Increase of honors to his name.
—William Cullen Bryant.

THE INSPIRATION.

WHENEER a noble deed is wrought,
Whene'er is spoken a noble thought,
Our hearts in glad surprise
To higher levels rise.

THE tidal wave of deeper souls
Into our inmost being rolls
And lifts us unaware
Out of all meaner cares.

HONOR to those whose words or deeds
Thus helps us in our daily needs
And by their overflow
Raise us from what is low!
—Longfellow.

HOME AGAIN.

HOME again, home again, from a foreign shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more!
Here I dropped the parting tear
To cross the ocean's foam,
But now I'm once again with those Who kindly greet me home.
Home again, home again from a foreign
shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more!
Happy hearts, happy hearts
With mine have laughed in glee;
But, oh, the friends I loved in youth
Seem happier to me!
And if my guide should be the fate
Which bids me leave my home,
But death alone can break the tie
That binds my heart to home.
Home again, home again from a foreign
shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more!

Music sweet, music soft,
Lingers round the place,
And, oh, I feel the childhood charm
That time cannot efface!
Then give me but my homestead roof—
I'll ask no palace dome—
For I can live a happy life
With those I love at home.
Home again, home again from a foreign
shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more!
—M. S. Pike.

WHO WAS IT?

Somebody did a golden deed.
Somebody proved a friend in need.
Somebody sang a beautiful song.
Somebody smiled the whole day long.
Somebody thought, "Tis sweet to live."
Somebody said, "I'm glad to give."
Somebody fought a valiant fight.
Somebody loved to shield the right.
Was that "somebody" you?
—Selected.

MARTHA.

A LITTLE girl,
Barefooted, ragged, with neglected hair,
Eyes full of laughter, neck and shoulders bare.
A thin slip of a girl, like a new moon,
Sure to be rounded into beauty soon;
A creature men would worship and adore,
Though now in mean habiliments she wore A pail of water, dripping through the street
And bathing as she went her naked feet.
It was a pretty picture, full of grace.
The slender form, the delicate, thin face.
The swaying motion as she hurried by.
The shining feet, the laughter in her eye.
That o'er her face in ripples gleamed and glanced
As in her pall the shifting sunbeams danced.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON

THE VICTORIES OF FAITH.

Acts 7:9-16; Hebrews 11:20-22—
June 29.

WE live in a day when faith is greatly discounted. People seem disposed to say, "I care not what a man believes, if only his life be honorable."
By this generally is meant that faith is of no consequence. Those who so hold usually put honor of men as the highest goal. Their sentiments, translated into plain English, would be,
"With all your getting, get money and prosperity; for without these, you will never prosper in the present life."

The Bible standpoint, however, is the very reverse of this. God's Word puts faith first, and builds character upon that faith. God declares that no human being can do perfect works.
Hence He has not made works the standard. Faith is God's standard, and He assures us that whoever has the proper faith must necessarily have works to correspond.

In line with this principle, we note
that God's favorites of the Bible have all been men of faith. Their faith did not make them perfect, nor were their works always acceptable in God's sight. But He punished them for evil works, and rewarded them for faith. Thus we find in the Bible record that some of God's favorites committed grievous sins and made serious mistakes. Nevertheless, they maintained God's favor, by reason of their faith. Of all religious books ever written the Bible is perhaps the most candid. It tells of the mistakes and the sins of the very men which it holds up as examples. Yet the Bible inculcates the highest possible standards of righteousness, in word, deed and thought.

The Faith Before Christ Came.

The first proclamation of God's purposes respecting humanity was made to Abraham. After Abraham had manifested his faith, God declared that He would greatly bless him and his posterity, so that through him would eventually come children who would accomplish the great work of blessing mankind, and who would rescue all from the power of sin and death. "In thee and in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

For years God tested Abraham. Yet
"his faith staggered not." After Isaac had been born and as yet had no child, God directed that this son of promise be sacrificed. What a grand development of faith Abraham had acquired when he was ready to obey, accounting that God was able to raise Isaac from the dead! O the blessing of such faith!
It was the same with Isaac and Jacob. That promise influenced the whole course of their lives. Although they understood practically nothing of how God would accomplish so great a blessing, yet their faith laid hold upon the fact. It made them more like God. It shaped every interest of life.

By and by, Israel was called the people of God. The Covenant of Sinai pledged them to be a holy nation. God covenanted with them that if they would keep His Law blamelessly, He would fulfil in them the Promise made to Abraham. He knew that imperfect men could not keep His perfect Law;
but He let them try, thereby learning the lesson. Through that lesson He would give instruction to the angels respecting His righteousness, and also to Spiritual Israel, whom later He would develop and through whom the blessing actually would come.

During the Jewish Age, God blessed those Israelites who shared Abraham's faith. St. Paul could enumerate a considerable number who pleased God because of their faith. Those Ancient Worthies, although they will not be the Seed of Abraham in the highest sense, on the spirit plane, will be the seed of blessing on the earthly plane—the channel through which blessings will ultimately come to all nations.

Faith Since Christ Came.

Christ's coming did not change the Divine Purpose, and therefore did not change the faith of God's people. Jesus and the Apostles believed and taught the very Gospel which St. Paul says, God preached to Abraham, (Galatians 3:8). The Message still was that all the families of the earth would be blessed through Abraham's Seed. But there was an additional feature to be proclaimed;
namely, that God
had begun the work of providing this Seed—Messiah. God had sent His Son into the world, that He might become the Seed of Abraham on the spirit plane, and eventually fulfil every feature of the original Promise.

Later, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, the Apostle instructed the early Church that The Messiah would not be one person, but many. Not Jesus alone would be the Seed of Abraham, but Jesus the Head and the Church the Body, would be that Seed.
Jesus was represented by the head of Isaac, and the Church by his body, as St. Paul says, "We, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of Promise." It has taken the entire Gospel Age to develop this Body, the Church.

This is "the faith once delivered to the saints," the hope set before us in the Gospel, which sanctifies our hearts.

Woman's Day

Instance of a Man Who Must Obey a Woman
For Twelve Hours

By ELLEN P. BAXTER

A party of German Americans were drinking beer and listening to an orchestra in a saloon with sawdust on the floor and stunted evergreens standing about in tubs. The sawdust they fancied to be the turf of the fath-erland; the evergreens were to them the trees of their native forests; the orchestra was the birds singing in the trees. Happy imagination that can derive comfort from such surroundings.

The conversation fell upon the advancement of women, which is attracting the attention of the world today.
"The advancement of women!" ex-claims Carl Becker contemptuously.
"Rather the decline of women. Fancy our German mothers and sisters and wives and sweethearts taking on as the English suffragists are now doing.
What would the fatherland be today?"

"Ach, Carl," retorted Hans Muller,
"you can never advance beyond the little village in which you were born, where the men and the women have occupied the same relative position for hundreds of years. You are not up to these times, in which fewer women marry, and when women are obliged to support themselves they will not be content to play second fiddle."

"Tell us the story, Carl," suggested John Katz, "about the day you spent subservient to a woman. I have heard it myself, but the others haven't."

"Oh, that story! It is not much of a story."

"Tell it, Carl," cried several of the party at once. Rattling their mugs on the table, they called for more beer,
and when it was served Carl Becker
began as follows:

"My birthplace was Nordhastedt.
There is a tradition there that some

"WHEN I PUT MY FINGERS INTO IT THEY WERE SCALDED."

five or six centuries ago the town was attacked by robbers and the men after a hard fight were obliged to retreat.
At this point the women, armed with such weapons as they could lay their hands upon, attacked the robbers and beat them.

"Ever since that time our people have at intervals set apart one day for a festival, during which the men turn over all authority to the women and are obedient to their slightest commands."

"Not long before I came away to America I courted Lena Reltze—Lena is my wife—and when one of those festival days that the men must obey the women came round I made arrangements to spend it with her. Lena had some brothers and sisters all younger than herself, including a baby. Herr Reltze he said to me: 'Carl, I and my wife go away on the woman's day, and we leave all the children for you and Lena to take care of. It will be a very good preparation for you to be a married couple. You will have a family on which to practice.'

"I thought that a good idea, but at that time I knew nothing about family matters, and it seems to me now that it was not a very good day when I must obey Lena to see how we would get on as man and wife with a family. I told Herr Reltze that I would go to his house and take his place early in the morning and stay there till he and his wife returned at night."

"When I got to the house Lena's father and mother were gone. I thought Lena and I would have a good time together that day, so I was very happy.
Breakfast had been finished, but the dishes were on the table. Lena told me that she would only expect me to do half the work; but, of course, I must do what she told me to do. She said I must clear the breakfast table.
I thought that very easy work, so I take off all the dishes, while I sing a song to myself. Lena she give the baby his bath, for she say she would not trust me to do that. When I get the breakfast table cleared I shake the crumbs on the floor and fold up the cloth carefully and put it away. Then I sit down to rest.
"After awhile Lena come in and tell me to go get a broom and sweep up the crumbs. I don't like this very much, but I must obey, and when I get the crumbs in the dustpan I hit my foot against it and scatter them all over the floor again. Next time I was more careful and didn't have to sweep them up any more. When I got through with the job I call Lena, who was giving the baby his bath, to come and we go out to walk together.

"Have you washed the dishes?" Lena called from above.

"No. Must the dishes be washed?"
"Of course," she answered. "You don't suppose we can eat on the same dishes forever without washing them.
You'll find hot water on the stove."

"I went into the kitchen and poured the boiling water into the pan, and when I put my fingers into it they were scalded. I danced around the kitchen in pain and called out to Lena to know if I must wash the dishes in boiling water. She said I was stupid not to put some cold water in too. I did this and washed the dishes and dried them and put them away."

"By this time it was 10 o'clock and I had had no fun at all. I thought surely now Lena would come downstairs and we would go out to walk and listen to the birds sing. Lena did come down, but with the baby in her arms, and she put him in mine, saying that I must take care of him while she attended to the wants of the younger children."

"I don't like this at all, but what could I do? It was the day when I must obey, so I took the baby from her, but he didn't wish to leave Lena and come to me, so he set up a yell loud enough to wake up his ancestors out in the churchyard. I talked to him and walked him and danced him up and down, but the more I persuaded him to be quiet the louder he yelled and kicked. I said to Lena, 'Take this baby yourself; I can't do anything with him.' To this she replied that I must keep him."

"I began to wish that the robbers who had brought about this custom had killed all the women so that we would not be afflicted with it, but I dare not disobey Lena; no man in the town dare disobey any woman in that town, for if he did all the people would turn against him for not respecting the time honored custom."

"I did one thing that shows that even in taking care of a baby a man, if he really brings his mind down to the problem, can do it better than a woman. They haven't the inventive power men have. I put the baby to sleep.
How did I do that? Why, I began to blow into his eyes. He was obliged to shut them and keep them shut, and so he could do nothing but go to sleep."

The story teller paused to empty his beer mug, and all the others cried:

"Bravo, Carl! You have shown that you are superior to a woman on her own ground."

Carl went on with his story:

"But putting the baby to sleep didn't do me any good, for Lena said the children would soon come in hungry and I must get the dinner."

"Dinner!" I exclaimed. "Why, I have only just got rid of the breakfast!"

"We can't help that," Lena answered. "We must all eat, especially children."

"They eat all the time, don't they?"

"Pretty nearly."

"There were four dishes to be prepared for dinner and every one of them was burned, for how was I to attend to them all at once? My hands, which had been scalded in the morning, were burned at noon. When the dishes were set on the table the children made a howl, the baby began to cry and the dog barked. I put my hands to my ears and ran away from the house, and I didn't go back that day either."

"Soon it was known all over the town that I had been disobedient on woman's day, and everybody was talking about me. Some persons on meeting me cut me dead. It was 'Carl, how could you show such disrespect to woman's day, which has come down to us for five or six centuries? No man has ever done so before.' 'Himmel!' I cried. 'If it is so bad to obey the woman for one day, what must it be to obey her every day? I'm going to leave this village and go to America. If they have there a woman's day I will go somewhere else and keep on going till I find a place where no man has ever to obey a woman!'"

"When Lena heard I was going to America she said she was going with me. 'If you do,' I said to her, 'and we find there is a woman's day there, you must understand that it is not to be observed in our family. She agreed to this, and here we are in America. Lena takes care of the house and the children and I make the money for the family.'

"Are you going to let your wife vote?" asked Hans Muller.

"No. If Lena votes I have to go back to that woman's day and do her work.
You bet I don't do that. But I think Lena wouldn't have time to vote. She would be like the man who heard that the bank where he kept all his money had failed. He ran to the bank and demanded his money. The teller hard-ed it out to him and the man said, 'If you got him I no want him.' I think my wife be like this man. If she can't vote she will want to vote. If she can vote she say to me: 'You vote in my place. I got to give the baby his bath.'"

"Nonsense, Carl," rejoined Muller.
"The day for children is past. There's fewer marriages than formerly and seldom more than one child to a family.
There's no reason why a woman should stay away from the polls all her life because of one or two years devoted to a baby."

"Well then," granted Becker, "if the human race die out, what's the use of anybody voting?"

"I give it up," said Muller. "Let us listen to the music."
